

NORTHROP RICE FOUNDATION

NIDA CORPORATION TRAINING EQUIPMENT AWARD

GENERAL INFORMATION

The Northrop Rice Foundation is pleased to administer the NIDA Corporation training equipment program for ATEC member schools. The NIDA Corporation is donating an AMT Training System. The training system includes a Model 130E Test Console, a Model 1438A Aviation Maintenance Technology Experiment Card Set, Scores Pro Learning Management System, and a Client Access License for the AMT Course. The Training System value is $8,389.00.

This Training System will need a school-provided PC computer with Windows XP (or better) to operate correctly. The package cannot be broken apart since it is an integrated system. The card set experiments include: power generation, power distribution, lighting, instruments, landing gear, environmental control systems, wiring & wiring harness assembly, fire detection, caution/warning systems, motors, and basic troubleshooting techniques.

The selection of the school to be awarded this training system will be made by members of the Northrop Rice Foundation Board. In order to be eligible for consideration a school must be an ATEC member school and comply with the requirements outlined on the NIDA Corporation Training Equipment Award Application.

Applications and Documentation are to be submitted to Ivan D. Livi, at ivan.livi@verizon.net, or by regular mail to Ivan D. Livi, 210 Melvin Drive, Pittsburgh, Pa 15236-1432.
